

Museums and the Web 2010

April 13-17, 2010
Denver, Colorado, USA

Call For Participation

<http://www.archimuse.com/mw2010/>

The MW program is built from the ground up, based on your suggestions. Proposals are encouraged on any topic related to museums creating, facilitating, delivering or participating in culture, science and heritage on-line.

Session Formats

Choose the right presentation format for your proposal. Even the best ideas can be rejected if proposed for an inappropriate venue.

- Research?
Propose a Paper, to be given in a formal session with other papers and discussion
- Case Study?
Present a Paper or a Demonstration, depending on whether you wish to emphasize generalizability, or show your specific case
- Methods and Techniques?
Teach others in a Pre-conference Workshops (full or half-day) or Mini-workshop (1hr)
- Debate or Problem Statement?
Engage colleagues in a Professional Forum
- Product to Show?
Come and Exhibit (commercial) or propose a Demonstration (non-commercial)
- Performance? Interaction? Service?
Propose any other format of participation + explain how it works.

Multiple Submissions

Please co-ordinate your proposals with your collaborators. Multiple proposals about the same project will not be accepted. Multiple submissions from the same person are rarely accepted.

Session Proposals

Proposals for sessions should be submitted as individual papers with a covering note. Papers are reviewed individually; full sessions are rarely accepted.

Peer Review

All proposals are subject to critical peer review by an International Program Committee.

Deadlines

- September 30, 2009 for papers, workshops, mini-workshops + professional forums (written paper required by Jan. 31, 2010)
- December 31, 2009 for demonstrations (written paper optional)
